J. I. Straus' Poll
Job, Ford and Valentino
Turning Real Money Away

—BY ARTHUR BRISBANE—

CYRUS H. K. CURTIS asks why [illegible] is so "somber." [illegible] Coolidge, says Mr. Curtis, "used to drop a word [illegible] of sentiment, of homely [illegible] sense." In intimate con[illegible] he "made the most de[illegible] of dry New England wise[illegible]."

[illegible] Curtis' editorial writer would [illegible] President Hoover make some [illegible] wisecracks" also.

It will be remembered, however, that Mr. Coolidge spent eight years [illegible] rolling along on the high [illegible] of prosperity. That makes "wisecracking" easy.

There is a difference between [illegible] downhill on your toboggan and dragging it uphill. Mr. Hoover is dragging his up.

JESSE I. STRAUS, president of R. H. Macy & Co., discovers after a careful poll of former Democratic delegates and alternates that Governor Roosevelt of New York is the overwhelming Democratic favorite, with 478 votes as against 125 for former Governor Smith. New York is not included in the poll.

Nevertheless and notwithstanding, any candidate who gets the nomination should be careful to get with it the earnest indorsement of former Governor Smith. Without that delegates and their nomination would not be very useful.

DOROTHY DIX, who understands men and women, answers the question, "What kind of husband do women want?" thus: "A woman's ideal husband would be a composite picture of Valentino, Henry Ford and Job."

She suggests Valentino's beauty, Ford's money, and Job's patience in a husband.

But Henry Ford, with his high forehead, is, for an intelligent woman, much better looking than Valentino ever was, and he has more patience than Job, who only sat down and complained. Ford works.

"A woman wants a husband who can make love with one hand and money with the other," says Miss Dix.

That is part of clever writing. The reality is that a good woman wants a husband that she can respect, one able to provide for his children, and possessed of loyalty. That is not too much to ask

FEODOR M. ZYAVKIN, general manager of the Amtorg Trading Corporation, which is Russia's buying agency in the United States, is told that he can't stay any longer. He is here legally, with a visitor's permit, but the government refuses to extend it.

That same government extends permits to all sorts of actors lecturers and heaven knows what from Europe. This seems a queer time to expel somebody who is here to spend real money, and Amtorg is spending it by the million.

IN COLORADO SCHOOL BUS TRAGEDY

(Copyrighted by The Denver Post, from The Associated Press)

At the top is pictured the Towner, Colo., school bus which was stranded in a blizzard March 26, resulting in five of 22 children perishing after 24 hours' exposure. The driver, Carl Miller, also was frozen to death after trying to get help. Below are four of the survivors huddling under comforters at a nearby farmhouse, waiting for an airplane which took them to a hospital. Below at left is Bryan Untiedt, 13, who survived the tragedy although he heroically gave his outer garments to a younger brother, Orlo, 8, who died.

Today business and schools of the district closed while joint funeral services were held for the children and driver in the armory at Holly, Colo. All ministers of the town aided in the services and the six victims were buried in one grave.

NEW OHIO AUTO TAX PROPOSAL APPROVED

Legislative Committee Gives Tentative O. K. to Plan for Increasing Revenue.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 31—The joint legislative committee preparing a new taxation system for Ohio gave tentative approval today to a readjusted plan for taxing automobiles and other vehicles which would provide additional revenues of about $6,500,000.

The plan contemplates the abolition of the present personal property tax and an increase of the present license tag fees. Its effect upon the owner of the smaller car weighing less than 2,000 pounds would be to increase his license tag fee from $4 to $6.

As compared with the $7,000,000 in revenue now received in license tags on passenger automobiles the new setup would provide $17,000,000. Trucks which now yield around $5,000,000 in license taxes would pay between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000. The fee on motorcycles would be doubled from $2.50 to $5.

In all the new system would produce about $23,000,000. Under the present plan the license fees on autos and trucks and the personal property taxes yield about $16,500,000.

The new license fees would be based solely on car weights.

Here is the setup on passenger cars: all weights up to 2,000 pounds, 30 cents per 100 pounds; 2,000 to 3,000 pounds, 40 cents; 3,000 to 4,000 pounds, 50 cents; all over 4,000 pounds, 60 cents.

The assessment on trucks would be: up to 2,000 pounds, 70 cents per 100; 2,000 to 3,000 pounds, 85 cents; 3,000 to 4,000 pounds, $1.00; 4,000 to 6,000 pounds, $1.25; 6,000 to 9000 pounds, $1.50; all over, $1.75.

The joint committee also promised Representative Raymond E. Hildebrand, Republican of Lucas county, that it would give serious consideration to his proposal for a plan to permit payment of all taxes on the installment plan.

Hoover Issues Orders for Red Cross To Extend Immediate Aid.

By The Associated Press

PANAMA CITY, March 31—Forty persons were reported to have been killed in a terrific earthquake which devastated the city of Managua, capital of Nicaragua today. Tropical radio advices said that the city was under martial law.

The quake, which began at 10:10 a. m., was of short duration. It was followed by a fire which started in the market in the center of the town and traveled westward threatening to sweep the entire city.

The tropical radio operator in Managua reported that the cable office there was in ruins and that the tropical company was operating from a plant five miles outside the city.

WASHINGTON, March 31—The American Red Cross has been directed by President Hoover to extend aid immediately to the stricken city of Managua, Nicaragua.

By The Associated Press

PANAMA CITY, March 31—The Tropical Radio company today reported that the city of Managua, capital of Nicaragua, was destroyed by an earthquake this morning. Only a few houses were left standing and they were on fire.

Cable communication with Managua was reported down while the Tropical Radio was temporarily out of touch but expected to make contact again shortly.

Important Trade Center

Managua is the capital of Nicaragua and has a population of about 60,000. It is located on Lake Managua, 87 miles from the Port of Corinto and 36 miles from Granada. It is an important commercial center and the second largest city in the republic.

The houses are mostly one-story, roofed with red tiles and enjoying inner gardens or patios. Among the principal buildings are the cathedral, the national palace, ancient structures of red sandstone and the presidential palace, a recent handsome addition.

United States marines have occupied the campo de marte, at the southern edge of the city, almost continuously since 1912 but were recently ordered withdrawn.

The city is located on the Pacific railway. Its importance dates from 1855 when it was chosen as the capital of the province as the result of continuous rivalry between the older cities of Leon and Granada.

It is an important distributing point for points on or near the east shore of Lake Managua, and Matagalpa. A number of important wholesale firms have offices there as well as retail houses, both native and foreign.

1,500 Marines in Country

Approximately 1,500 marines are stationed in Nicaragua. On March 7 Rear Admiral Arthur St. C. Smith, commander of the United States forces in Central America, was ordered by the navy department to begin gradual withdrawal of his forces.

The plan was to move [illegible] marines out by June 1 and the remainder by Jan. 1, [illegible], after the inauguration of the [illegible] government. [illegible]

President Also Satisfied To Leave G. O. P. Organization Unchanged.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 31—Senate Republican leader Watson said today after a breakfast conference with the President that they had agreed that there was no necessity for a reorganization of the Republican national committee at this time.

The Indiana senator said he and the President had talked over the general political situation and that they were agreed that there was no need for disturbing the present political peace.

"Politics is adjourned," Watson said.

Reports have been current recently that President Hoover intended to make a complete reorganization of the national committee beginning with the chairmanship.

Many of the reports were started while the President was absent from Washington on the trip to the Caribbean.

"Congress adjourned to give the country a rest from politics," Watson said, "and there is no reason for us to start anything now. Congress will not be in session for another eight months and the election is more than a year and a half away, so why get everything upset?"

The Indianan did not obtain the President's views on the federal financial situation but disclosed his own to the executive in an hour and a half talk which [illegible] field of political and [illegible] problems.

FAMOUS GRID COACH OF NOTRE DAME IS VICTIM OF CRASH

Mail Transport Ship Falls in Flames Near Bazar, Kansas; Two Pilots, Six Passengers Aboard Craft.

WRECK OF AIR LINER IS BLAMED ON FOG

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, March 31—Knute Rockne, famous football coach of Notre Dame university and seven others were killed when a Transcontinental and Western air passenger and air mail plane crashed in flames today in a pasture several miles southwest of Bazar, Kas.

Western Air officials said they had no official word that the plane had crashed. However, their regular liner leaving Kansas City at 9:10 a. m. bore the department of commerce license number N. C. 999, the number found on the wings of the wrecked craft near Bazar.

The plane left here in a light rain and kept in radio communication with Kansas City until it reached Cassoday, Kansas. Thereafter communication was interrupted.

Foggy weather and drizzling rain made for bad flying conditions in this section and several local pilots said they did not care to venture aloft today.

The plane carried two pilots, Robert Fry and Jess Mathias and six passengers.

Rockne boarded the plane here enroute to California at 9:15 a. m. and about 11 a. m., the ship, identified by its department of commerce license number, crashed and burned as it fought a fog and storm enroute to Wichita, Kas.

The body of Rockne and the other victims had not been definitely identified at the scene, but it was certain the noted coach was a passenger on the wrecked air liner and that all those aboard had been killed.

Passenger List

The passenger list was announced here as follows:

Knute Rockne.
H. J. Christensen of Chicago.
J. H. Hooper of Chicago.
W. B. Miller of Hartford, Conn.
F. Goldthwaite of New York.
C. A. Lobrech of Chicago.

The pilots were Robert Fry and Jess Mathias.

The plane exploded in mid-air and fell to the earth in flames, witnesses said.

Edward Baker witnessed the explosion and saw the plane plunge as he was feeding cattle in the pasture a short distance away on the farm of his father, Seward Baker.

Baker found five bodies when he reached the plane. He notified an undertaking establishment at Cottonwood Falls. Ambulances rushed to the scene over muddy roads which impeded their progress.

Baker said his attention was attracted by a terrific explosion in the foggy sky. Looking up the youth saw an airplane burst into flames and rocket toward the earth.

Baker said he recognized the plane as the mail liner which flew regularly over his father's farm. He said he had not noticed the craft prior to the explosion.

Rushing to where the ship had crashed into the earth a burning heap of wreckage, Baker said he could distinguish the bodies.

Family in Florida

Mrs. Rockne and the three children who have been wintering in Florida, were expected to return to South Bend in a few days.

Plans were being made to send investigators for the air line by plane to the scene early this afternoon.

At 1:40 p. m. air line officials said they had no confirmation of the wreck.

Career Almost Unequalled

The combined careers of Knute Kenneth Rockne as [illegible]

[illegible] was assistant to Head Coach Jesse Harper, and when the latter retired at the end of the 1917 season, it was largely upon his recommendation that his lieutenant was installed as his successor.

Mr. Rockne was a native of Norway, born at Voss, March 4, 1888, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Rockne. His father, a carriage maker, first came to the United States in 1893 to exhibit at the World's Fair at Chicago a product of his skill. The exhibit won a medal for him and so delighted was he with his success that he decided to remain in Chicago. Two months later his wife, son and two daughters joined him.

Knute was thrown upon his own resources before he went to high school. He was self supporting during that period of his education and worked on a railroad in Illinois to pay his tuition at Notre Dame. There, as an undergraduate, he took honors in chemistry, and upon completing his course joined the faculty as an instructor in that subject, and later, in addition, became athletic director.

On July 15, 1914, Mr. Rockne married Miss Bonnie Skiles of Sandusky, Ohio. They had four children.

SMALL VOTE LIKELY

Vermont Goes to Polls After Bitter Primary Campaign.

By The Associated Press

MONTPELIER, Vt., March 31—Vermont Republicans strove today to give Warren R. Austin a normal majority over his Democratic opponent, Stephen M. Driscoll, in its special election to fill the vacancy created by the death of U. S. Senator Frank L. Greene.

A small vote appeared certain and Republican party leaders feared a less than normal majority for their candidate. There was no fear, that this nominally Republican state would elect a Democratic candidate.

A bitter primary conflict, during which the Republican machine backs Austin's opponent, U. S. Senator Frank C. Partridge; the bad road conditions in some of the mountainous parts of the state; and the vigorous campaign conducted by Driscoll have conspired to make the Republicans apprehensive of being unable to poll more than a minimum margin.

NEW STORM DUE TO ROAR DOWN ON WEST

Further Losses of Livestock Threatened as Additional Snow Is Forecast.

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 31—The second snowstorm in a week over the Rocky mountain area and the adjoining prairie states appeared to be dissipating today, but forecasts indicated another was due to roar out of the northwest.

While snow continued to fall in sections of Oklahoma and Kansas, stockmen in Montana and Wyoming were warned against renewal of the storm. Elsewhere in the region, with the exception of Colorado and New Mexico, unsettled weather and rain was predicted.

The Oklahoma panhandle was covered with nearly 18 inches of snow, which was drifting. Clogged highways and disrupted communication lines threatened further losses to stock through starvation and exposure. Many communities in western Kansas, where snow fell yesterday, continued in virtual isolation. Hill City entered its fifth consecutive day without train service. Main highways were open in other sections, but sideboard continued impassable. Scattered reports of livestock losses continued to filter in.

One death attributed to the storm was that of A. L. Leonard, whose body was found yesterday in the Cuny Table district of the South Dakota badlands. Sixteen deaths had been previously reported.

3,000 CHEER ATTACK MADE ON TAMMANY

Walker Accusers Rally Forces as Jimmy Prepares for Return to N. Y.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 31—Mayor Walker is given 100 days by John Hayes Holmes to enjoy his return to the city.

"Then he will have come to his Waterloo and will have started upon his exile," said Mr. Holmes at an overflowed mass meeting at Carnegie hall last night. The mayor is due form California Saturday.

The meeting was called by the city affairs committee, which has preferred charges with Governor Roosevelt against Mayor Walker. Speakers were Mr Holmes, chairman of the city affairs committee, Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, Heywood Broun, newspaper columnist, Dr. Sidney E. Goldstein, associate rabbi of the free synagogue, and Paul Blanshard, executive director of the city affairs committee.

Denunciations Cheered

More than 3,000 persons cheered indictments of Tammany. Denunciations were mingled with demands for federal, state and city action to relieve unemployment.

"Everything that has happened since the city affairs committee began its agitation against the Walker administration has been a confession of guilt on the part of Tammany," said Mr. Holmes.

"Laughing at its enemies, sneering, scoffing, wise-cracking, the Tammany hall gang now is terrified and is hoping by confession of guilt and promise of reform to secure pardon.

"The administration, when charged with corruption, repudiated the charge and defied the legislature to investigate. Now that an investigation has been ordered, Tammany suddenly becomes good and starts cleaning house of its own accord."

Governor Roosevelt has before him a demand from City Comptroller Charles W. Berry that charges filed against that official be immediately heard. Berry is the third city official to be individually cited to the governor.

The charges were filed by William H. Allen, director of the institute for public service, who alleged Berry misused the power of his office and was unefficient.

and farm relief, and that an armistice in political debate would permit a more rapid economic rehabilitation.

The chairmanship of the Republican national committee also was discussed, but it was agreed, Watson said, that "there is no great rush about reorganization of the committee," now headed by Senator Fess of Ohio.

Favor "Business First"

"Our thought was," the senator said, "to let the country rest from politics, go ahead and attend to business and rehabilitate ourselves free from the clamor of politics."

The Republican leader said he would confer with Secretary Mellon in a few days on the financial problems facing the government.

"Too many people are paying too much attention to the stock market," he said. As a result, the business world, instead of keeping step to the music of the union, is keeping step to the click of the ticker."

The farm board also was discussed as was the legislative situation in a general way.

Senator Watson laid before the President the request of a group of private organizations for an extra session of congress May 1, he said. However, the executive "has no notion about calling an extra session."

Movie Director Demands Action In Pictures, Not in Home Life

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Calif., March 31—The eight months of married life of Luther Reed, film director, and Jocelyn Lee, redhaired actress, contained too much action even for a movie director.

Reed's story began to unfold on the witness stand here yesterday in support of his divorce petition.

Miss Lee served notice that she would match her husband's story with a tale of violence on his part. Miss Lee posed for pictures with one finger pointing to a spot on her jaw where she claims Reed's fist landed. She also said he threatened her with a gun.

While Reed described tempestuous happenings of their wedded life, prominent film witnesses waited outside the courtroom.

Miss Lee became so violent at one time, Reed testified, until finally they were ordered to leave the hotel.

Reed said Miss Lee once lost the bid while they were playing bridge in a San Francisco hotel, and threw an ash tray at him.

Reed claims they have but $2,500 community property. Miss Lee contends there is $100,000 in community property and asks $2,400 a month alimony. They were married in June, 1930.

Proposal for Federal Tax Increase Receives Setback

Chairman of House Appropriation Committee Comes Out in Favor of Other Plans for Solving Government's Finance Problems.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 31—Further federal inroads on the taxpayers' pocketbook today seemed less likely.

Those who propose a tax increase because of the expected $700,000,000 deficit were faced with the opposition of a Republican whose views bear much weight with his party.

Representative Wood, Indiana Republican, was the last to join the discussions. Chairman of the house appropriations committee—which group must pass on all government expenditures—he proposed other remedies. Wood said he thought a decrease in appropriations and an already apparent improvement of business ought to solve the situation.

"With the election just ahead I think congress will support this program," he asserted. "In the closely divided congress Democrats will be equally responsible for expenditures."

Wood expressed a belief a tax would "hurt business instead of helping it."

As one method of pruning government expenses he suggested halting appropriations for the farm board until "it has proved it has done some good."

Another Republican regular—Senator Reed of Pennsylvania—has opposed a tax raise. He advocated stopping "handouts to soldiers and farmers" and was assailed by Senator Norbeck, independent Republican of South Dakota, for suggesting the farm board be abolished. Senator Walsh, Democrat, of Montana, has said he looked with disfavor on increased levy proposals.

On the other side of the fence were at least four independent Republicans; Senators Norris of Nebraska, and Borah of Idaho, and Representative LaGuardia of New York, and Frear of Wisconsin.

Senator Hull of Tennessee and Representative Collier of Mississippi, Democrats, said some readjustment in the higher brackets probably would be necessary.

DEFENSE OPENS CASE IN BROTHERS TRIAL

Counsel for Alleged Slayer of Jake Lingle Confident of Acquittal.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 31 — Confident they said, of success, attorneys for Leo V. Brothers, St. Louis gunman, today began to lay the foundation of evidence by which they hope to acquit him of the murder of Alfred "Jake" Lingle, Tribune crime reporter.

With dramatic suddenness the prosecution rested yesterday after calling to the stand the eighth witness to name Brothers as having been near or fleeing from the scene of the fatal shooting of Lingle in a Michigan avenue pedestrian tunnel last June 9. Some of them, however, were not positive about the identification.

The final witness for the state was Albert W. Kelfstrom, who told the jurors that he saw Brothers standing in the hallway of the trunk store where Kelfstrom is employed, five minutes after the assassination. He said he invited him into the store and sold him a lady's suitcase, adding that he never came back for his purchase.

Kelfstrom said the man he saw was "very, very pale," and that this was why he had noticed him particularly.

[illegible] drastic curtailments will be necessary later, officials forecast today. At the outset of the year officials had approximately [illegible] less than the estimated requirements to operate the city this year. A part of this figure has been made up by reducing the programs in several departments, but more retrenchments will be necessary if the city is to balance its books at the end of the year, according to officials.

Settlement Due

Just how serious the shortage will be cannot be learned until the county auditor makes the semi-annual distribution of tax money expected sometime this week. When this settlement has been made, officials will know approximately how much money is available for operating expenses between now and Aug. 1, when the second tax settlement is due.

Another meeting of the finance committee will be held next Monday night after the settlement has been made, and further curtailments will probably be proposed.

Ever-increasing operating expenses, low tax collections, defeat last fall of the one-mill levy, and a gradual shrinkage each year in the amount of money available for operating expenses are blamed by city officials for the shortage which has existed all year.

WILL IMPROVE ROADS IN MORROW COUNTY

Commissioners Order Estimates for Early Spring Work.

Special to The Star.

MT. GILEAD, March 31 — The finance committee of the Morrow county fair board, Edd McClarren, J. A. Coomer and Charles Rhodebeck, met with the county commissioners Monday in regard to the financial aid to be extended this year by the county to the Agricultural Society. The $1,500 minimum appropriation required by law will be made as in previous years but the county commissioners persuaded the finance committee of the board to agree to apply $1,250 of this amount to the debt of the society instead of using it for running expenses. This reduces the indebtedness of the Morrow County Agricultural society from $9,000 to $7,750. At one time the debt was as high as $13,000. Applying the major part of the appropriation will leave the society with a small fund to begin preparations for this year's fair. It was pointed out, however, that the society will receive, under another state law, approximately $800, known as a per capita tax for fair purposes, and in addition approximately $500 for club work and awards.

Other business of the commissioners included the granting of four roads totaling approximately 11 miles. Estimates were ordered from the county surveyor for the four roads granted and construction is expected to start early in the summer.

The first granted was the St. James-Bellville road, part of section D in Troy township. It is one and one-third miles long extending from the Johnstown-Shelby road west to the Troy township line. Second was the Phillips-Bailey road in Lincoln, Peru and Bennington townships. It is two and seven-eights miles, is to be constructed by the traffic bound macadam method and extends from state Route 61 southeast to the Ashley-Marengo road.

Type of Material

The Hedding-Mt. Vernon road, two and four-tenths miles, in South Bloomfield township will be improved from the Knox county line west to Hedding and thence north to the Prospect-Mt. Vernon road. It will be gravel construction.

The fourth road granted Monday was the Pulaskiville road in Franklin township extending from Frozen Hill on Route 95 through Pulaskiville and to a point one mile east of Pulaskiville, a total distance of four and one-quarter miles.

Traffic bound macadam stone construction will be used.

AIM TO PROVE POTTER WAS SLAIN AT 9 P. M.

Time Element Brought to Front in Effort To Give Hymie an Alibi.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., March 31—Attorneys for "Pittsburgh Hymie" Martin, charged with the murder of former Councilman William E. Potter, made their first attempt today to show the killing was committed about 9 p. m. Feb. 3.

The defense contention is that Martin was in Akron by 8:30 p. m. that night. The state claims the killing was near 7 p. m.

Edith Hawkins, who spent the evening of Feb. 3 in the building where Potter was slain, was the first witness called by the defense to attempt to fix the time of the killing. She testified she heard three loud reports like shots between 8:30 and 9 p. m.

The sounds were so startling, Mrs. Hawkins said, that Mrs. Don Ambrose, whom she was visiting, jumped up from a davenport with an exclamation.

Earlier defense testimony was given to corroborate Martin's alibi that he was in Akron by 8:30 p. m. which was told to the jury yesterday by his sweetheart "Akron Mary" Outland.

It was reported the defense would summon a witness to testify that Potter was no stranger to the East Side suite where he was shot to death the night of Feb. 3. The witness would testify that Potter had entered the building previous to the day of the killing, it was said.

FRIDAY NIGHT—THIRD AND BIGGEST AMATEUR CONTEST

JUDGE OR BASEBALL PLAYER— IT'S ALL THE SAME TO MARTIN

Slugging Outfielder Packs Hefty Wallop in City Recreation Baseball.

IT is one thing to dole out sentences for law violations from the bench of the city's municipal court, it is quite another to dole out four-base clouts from the home plate in a baseball park but Judge William R. Martin (Royal is the middle name, thank you) seems equally proficient at either.

Judge Martin is one of those athletically minded individuals who has retained his simon pure status although possessing sufficient ability to have advanced into the ranks of professional competition. He has played baseball with several fast amateur teams, held down a regular berth on the Ohio Northern university diamond squad and taken part in various other sports with a better than average degree of success.

Born in 1900

Born in Columbus Grove, O., in 1900, Judge Martin has been calling Marion his home since 1914. His first athletic assignment of any consequence came when he was a student in Marion High school (now Harding). It was here he got his start in baseball, playing as a member of the outfield for the high school team. Nothing is recorded of how well he fared in the outer garden of the scholastic team but if accomplishments since that time are any indication he must have done fairly well.

Martin also played quarterback on the high school grid aggregation although nothing is recorded of his having burned up the sod of the gridiron with breath-taking feats.

Patrolling the outfield for a baseball team or going on a fishing expedition constitute the principal hobbies of Judge Martin. He claims no particular proficiency in either of them. As for baseball, he doesn't have to. Any one who has played on an opposing team will testify (somewhat sorrowfully perhaps) to his ability to wallop the horsehide and rob opposing batsmen of hits by difficult catches in the outfield.

Six Months or Four Bases, He Gives One and Gets the Other.

Baseball Pioneer

Martin has been playing recreational baseball since its inauguration in Marion. Three teams have had the benefit of his services. They are Epworth No. 1, K. of P., and Epworth Seniors. The latter two can claim him now as he is a member of both, playing with the Seniors in Sunday school league No. 1 and with the K. of P.'s in the Commercial circuit.

Martin's chief claim to distinction as a baseball player comes through his ability at the plate. There is only one other recreational baseball player in Marion who packs as heavy a wallop as does the judge. Singles from his bat are few and far between. Doubles, triples and four-play smashes are his specialty.

The judge is now preparing for another big year on the recreation ball diamonds here this season. He expects to play with both the Epworth Senior and the K. of P. nines. He'll be a big help to both of them!

MACFARLANE AND RUNYON TAKE LEAD

$5,000 in Prizes Await First 26 Players in Southeastern Open.

By The Associated Press.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 31 — Prizes totalling $5,000 awaited the first 26 players to reach the end of the golden trail today in the Southeastern open golf tournament.

Willie MacFarlane of New York, and Paul Runyon, of White Plains, N. Y., entered the finals three strokes ahead of the field.

They shot consistent golf yesterday to turn in 36-hole totals of 142 each.

Clarence Hackney of Atlantic City, N. J., and Bill Mehlhorn of Chicago, shot 145's to tie for third place.

The battle between Gene Sarazen of New York, and Johnny Golden of Noroton, Conn., to determine the season's biggest money winner failed to materialize when Golden did not enter the tournament. Sarazen was well down in the list with a 151.

Joe Turnesa, of Elmsford, N. Y., Walter Hagen of Detroit, and Bobby Cruickshank of Purchase, N. Y., were in a tie for fifth place with 146 each.

First prize will be $1,000. Second place will net the winner $750, and third $600.

Rinnert Wins Grappling Title at Ohio Wesleyan

Joseph Rinnert, 211 Reed avenue, is the winner of the heavyweight wrestling championship in the intramural boxing and wrestling tournament recently completed at Ohio Wesleyan university. Rinnert, who was the upperclass winner in this division, defeated the freshman champion for the university title at the annual intramural festival.

Finals in handball, fencing and indoor track were also held at the festival, an annual event which has been rapidly growing in interest at Ohio Wesleyan. Medals and loving cups were awarded individual and group winners.

COON HUNTERS TO MEET

The Heart of Ohio Coon Hunters' association will hold a meeting at the Selter Gun club tonight. All sportsmen are invited to attend.

Lingo, Cram Renamed To Lead Juniors' Ball Club

James Lingo and Bud Cram were renamed manager and captain of the Epworth Junior's baseball team last night at a meeting held at Lingo's home on Vine street.

The Juniors, who finished close to the bottom in Sunday school league No. 1 last season have several new players for the lineup this season. The team will again compete in No. 1 Sunday school league.

While all Uncle Sam's famed athletic clubs are brimming with year-before Olympic enthusiasm, none seems to have more championship potency than the Los Angeles A. C., the active roster of which is studded with a most dazzling constellation of track and field stars. No wonder Coach Boyd Comstock is the personification of modest confidence these days as his charges are preparing to all but corner the laurel market this year and scale Olympic heights in 1932. Just think of a club having these brilliants sporting its colors:

Dick Rockaway, hurdling genius who first made galleries gasp at Ohio State. He is making his debut with the L. A. A. C., and racing for supremacy with the club's other remarkable timber-toppers, Bob Maxwell and Jed Welch. These are of national championship calibre and they're just reaching athletic prime.

Then there's Orval Martin who won middle-distance fame at Purdue. What a point-maker he should prove in 440, 800 and mile events!

In weight-hurling contests, the "Angels" sure do have winnin' wings with hefty Herman Brix heaving the 16-pound shot farther than any other putter ever did it—a world's champion, indeed! And, at this writing, reports are current that another great heaver of the metal ball, Harlow Rothert, will also wear L. A. A. C. colors. If he does so, that should place the club 1—2 in that event in all its meets this year. Jim DeMers is the javelin specialist, the national champion in that most classic form of missile throwing.

Then, the "Angels" have Fred Sturdy who mastered the art of pole vaulting at Yale where he was second only to the extraordinary Sabin Carr in that specialty. Some there are who predict that Sturdy will better the vault marks of Carr, Lee Barnes, Tom Warne, et al before the next Olympics are concluded.

The "Angels" won last year's National Senior A. A. U. outdoors championship with a total of 46 points. Unless form reversals occur, the L. A. A. C ought to do 50 points or better this year in retaining its 1930 laurels.

Colorful Figure Crowds Into Heavyweight Picture

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 31—A colorful new figure had crowded into the ranks of the heavyweight parade today—Stanley Poreda, a straight-shooting youngster from Jersey City.

Meeting his first major opponent after a long string of victories over lesser lights of the division, the big, black-haired Pole established himself as a comer last night by pounding out a clean-cut win over old Johnny Risko, Cleveland rubber man, in Madison Square garden. Risko rallied in the closing rounds but could not overcome the long lead piled up by his young opponent in the early stages.

The excitement attending Poreda's surprising victory was too much for one of the 8,200 spectators, Rudy Hasse, 50, who attended the bout as Poreda's guest, died a few minutes after the verdict was announced, supposedly of heart failure.

Although the Associated Press score sheet credited Poreda with six rounds and Risko with only two, the decision of the three officials was not unanimous. The two judges named Poreda, but Referee Kid McPartland picked the veteran Risko.

After stopping Risko's initial rush with a hard fight to the chin that set the Cleveland battler back on his heels, Poreda continued to swarm over the baker boy for the first five rounds. He jarred the veteran repeatedly.

When the youngster slowed up in the sixth, Johnny charged him all over the ring, taking plenty of punches but landing a few.

The result was that he earned a draw in the sixth and tenth and had an edge in the seventh and ninth. There were no knockdowns.

Poreda entered the ring at 198½ pounds, Risko at 194.

ELMER SHAW, secretary of the Marion baseball commission, is again urging prospective competitors in the various city recreational baseball leagues here this summer to file their entries with him at the Y. M. C. A. as soon as possible. April 10 at 6 p. m. is the deadline for filing entries but there is no assurance that just because you are in before that time your entry will be accepted.

There are a number of teams which heretofore have not competed in the city leagues that are anxious to get in this season. If a team which competed last season fails to get its entry in before the deadline a new team will be named to take its place rather than extend the deadline for the benefit of the team which has competed before. IF YOU WANT TO PLAY FILE YOUR ENTRY AS SOON AS POSSIBLE.

Unless some means of financing it is found within the next few weeks, American Legion Junior Amateur baseball in Marion county will do a fadeaway act this summer, according to an announcement made by Walter Hane, 1930 manager of sub-district 5 comprised of the area surrounding Marion. Hane says the cost of operating the league calls for a greater expenditure of funds than are available at the present time.

It is unfortunate that Legion baseball is going to be dropped, considering the excellent competition it has afforded local athletes for the last few years. As with nearly every other kind of baseball except the big leagues, it has at best had a precarious existence and cannot continue without additional support.

In case Legion baseball is dropped here this year it is to be hoped that by the time another season rolls around some means will be found whereby it can be reintroduced to the local sandlots.

Outside of Marion county Legion baseball seems to be gaining in popularity and is expected to continue functioning.

RUGBY NEXT?

Former Grid Star Predicts Adoption of New Sport in U. S.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 31 — It's an old English custom, the game of rugby, but George Pfann, all-America quarterback of Cornell in 1923 and rugby player at Oxford for two years, thinks it is bound to catch on in this country.

Pfann, now a lawyer and right wing on the scrum of the New York rugby club, says rugby is an ideal intra-mural, inter-fraternity sport and he believes that some day it will be as widely played as, say, basketball.

Ballyhoo For Heavies' Fight Starts Warm-Up

CHICAGO, March 31—The ballyhoo for the proposed world heavyweight championship match between Max Schmeling of Germany, the champion, and William Stribling of Georgia, was warming up today.

A series of conferences was opened last night, in which sat William E. Carey, president of Madison Square garden, New York; Joe Jacobs, manager of Schmeling; Sheldon Clark, wealthy Chicago sportsman, and George Getz, a member of the Illinois state athletic commission, and co-promoter with the late Tex Rickard of the Dempsey-Tunney bout in Soldier field in 1927.

Nothing definite came of the long session, except that any announcement would come from Clark. Both Clark and Carey were extremely reticent about what went on and Jacobs, exercising the verbal prerogatives of a manager, was the only conferee to do much talking.

Jacobs' in a matter of fact way indicated Soldier field will be the site of the battle, and the date probably June 1.

While things that will happen were not freely discussed, something that is not likely to occur—a championship fight involving Schmeling and Mickey Walker, middleweight titleholder—was mentioned by Jacobs.

He said he had read about such a bout in the papers, but as far as he is concerned, there is nothing to it.

Indication that the Illinois legislature will pass a bill legalizing fifteen round championship bouts strengthened Chicago's bid for the title fight.

NICE GAME!

Hair Pulling Contest Terminates Girls' Basketball Contest.

By The Associated Press

CALIFORNIA, Pa., March 31 — A fist fight ended a girls' basketball game at California State Teachers college here last night.

The score showed the California girls and the Goldenson Vanities, a Pittsburgh girls' team tied at 19-all near the end of the half. Suddenly Miss Leona Cantwell of the Vanities and Miss Sarah Robertson of California, clinched. There was a wild exchange, with some hair pulling, and then other members of the two teams went into battle. The melee ended with the Vanities leaving the floor.

REPORTS INDICATE JUNE BOUT BETWEEN SHARKEY - CARNERA

Announcement of Fight Awaits Reinstatement of Italian in New York.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 31—A rather general whisper has it that Jimmy Johnston is all set to promote a heavyweight duel between Primo Carnera and Jack Sharkey at Ebbets field in Brooklyn this June, and that formal announcement awaits only the reinstatement of Primo to good standing in this state

On the face of it, the match looks like a "natural" but none of the parties concerned can be induced to admit that any negotiations have been started.

Carnera has been on the barred list of the New York state athletic commission for a year—ever since his match with Leon Chevalier out on the west coast. The fistic fathers may decide at their meeting today that Primo has been punished enough.

Carnera's reinstatement, those supposed to be in the know say, depends upon his agreeing to box for Johnston, and with charity a the chief beneficiary. Sharkey, according to Johnston, already ha agreed verbally to three matche this summer.

A Sharkey-Carnera bout migh be regarded in the light of a sem final round match, rivalling th battle between Max Schmeling an Young Stribling to be held in Jun

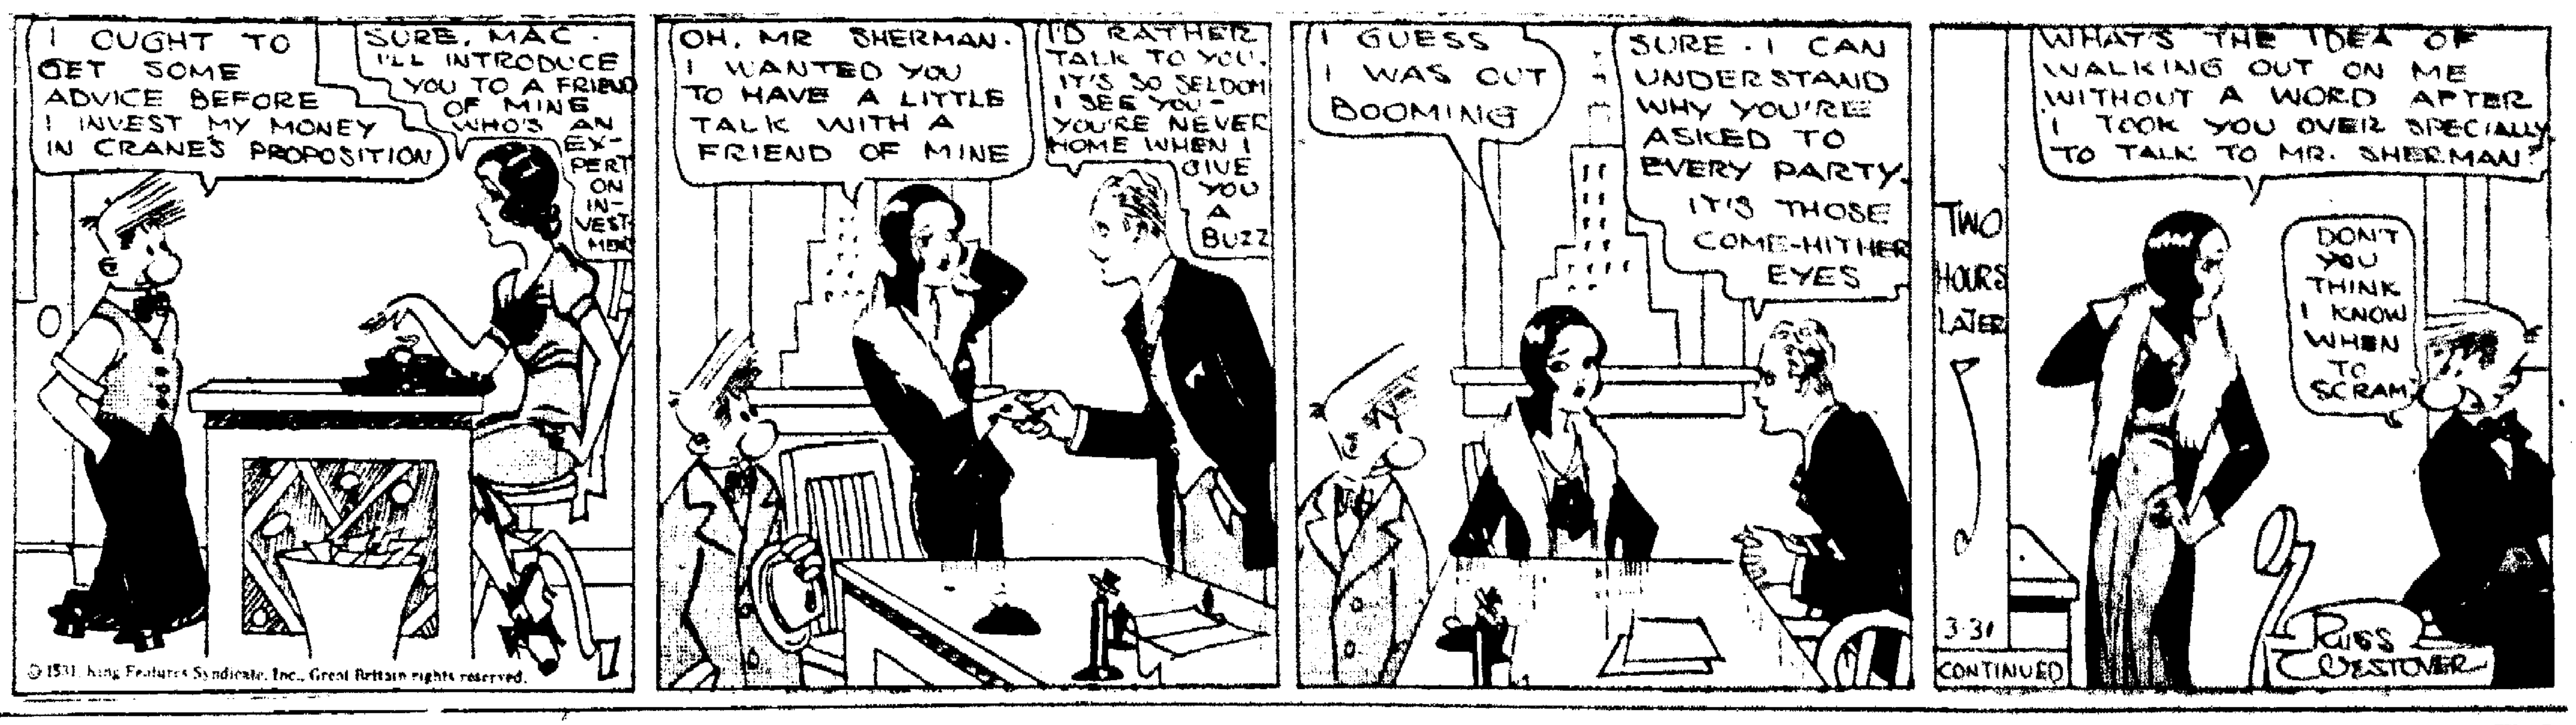
TILLIE THE TOILER

BY RUSS WESTOVER



I OUGHT TO GET SOME ADVICE BEFORE I INVEST MY MONEY IN CRANE'S PROPOSITION
SURE, MAC - I'LL INTRODUCE YOU TO A FRIEND OF MINE WHO'S AN EXPERT ON INVESTMENTS
OH, MR SHERMAN - I WANTED YOU TO HAVE A LITTLE TALK WITH A FRIEND OF MINE
I'D RATHER TALK TO YOU. IT'S SO SELDOM I SEE YOU - YOU'RE NEVER HOME WHEN I GIVE YOU A BUZZ
I GUESS I WAS OUT BOOMING
SURE - I CAN UNDERSTAND WHY YOU'RE ASKED TO EVERY PARTY. IT'S THOSE COME-HITHER EYES
TWO HOURS LATER
WHAT'S THE IDEA OF WALKING OUT ON ME WITHOUT A WORD AFTER I TOOK YOU OVER SPECIALLY TO TALK TO MR. SHERMAN?
DON'T YOU THINK I KNOW WHEN TO SCRAM?

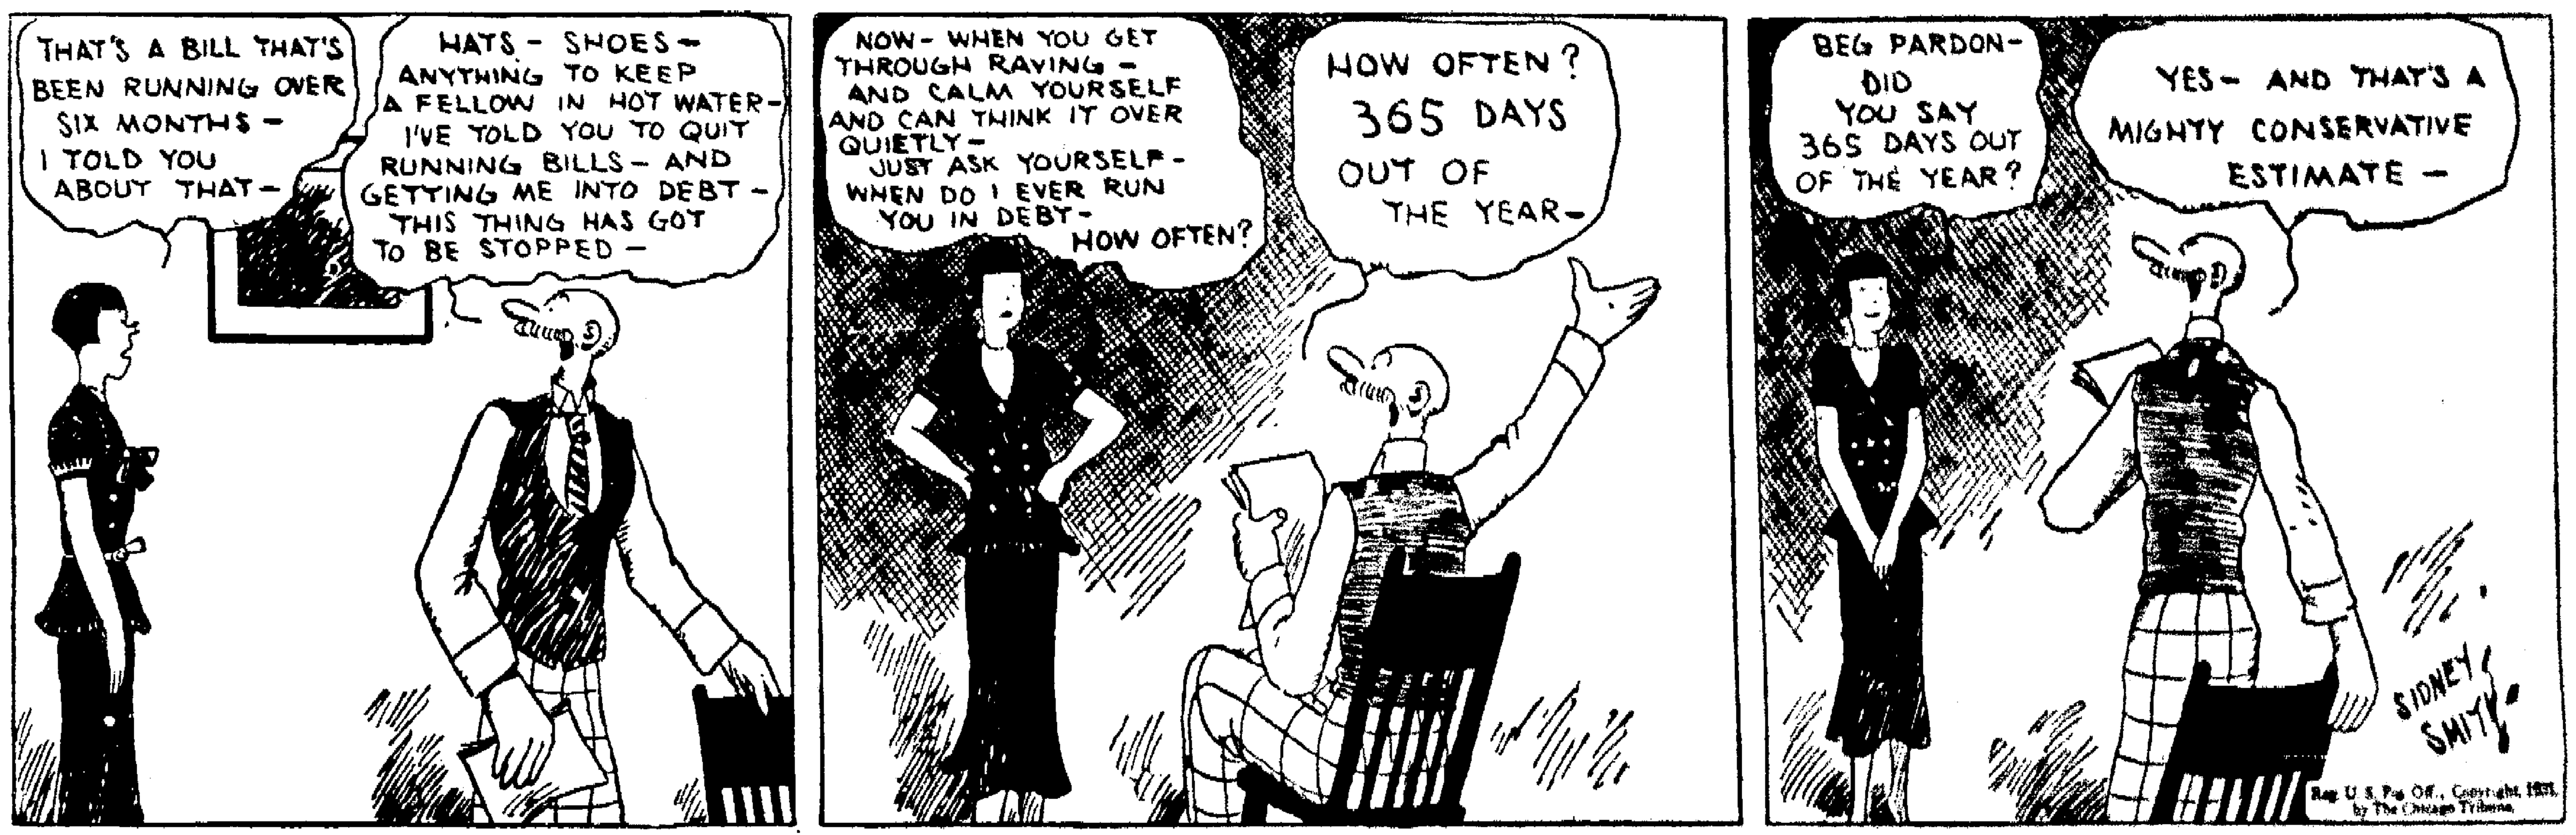
THE GUMPS

BY SIDNEY SMITH



THAT'S A BILL THAT'S BEEN RUNNING OVER SIX MONTHS — I TOLD YOU ABOUT THAT—
HATS - SHOES — ANYTHING TO KEEP A FELLOW IN HOT WATER— I'VE TOLD YOU TO QUIT RUNNING BILLS— AND GETTING ME INTO DEBT— THIS THING HAS GOT TO BE STOPPED—
NOW— WHEN YOU GET THROUGH RAVING — AND CALM YOURSELF AND CAN THINK IT OVER QUIETLY— JUST ASK YOURSELF— WHEN DO I EVER RUN YOU IN DEBT— HOW OFTEN?
HOW OFTEN? 365 DAYS OUT OF THE YEAR—
BEG PARDON— DID YOU SAY 365 DAYS OUT OF THE YEAR?
YES— AND THAT'S A MIGHTY CONSERVATIVE ESTIMATE —

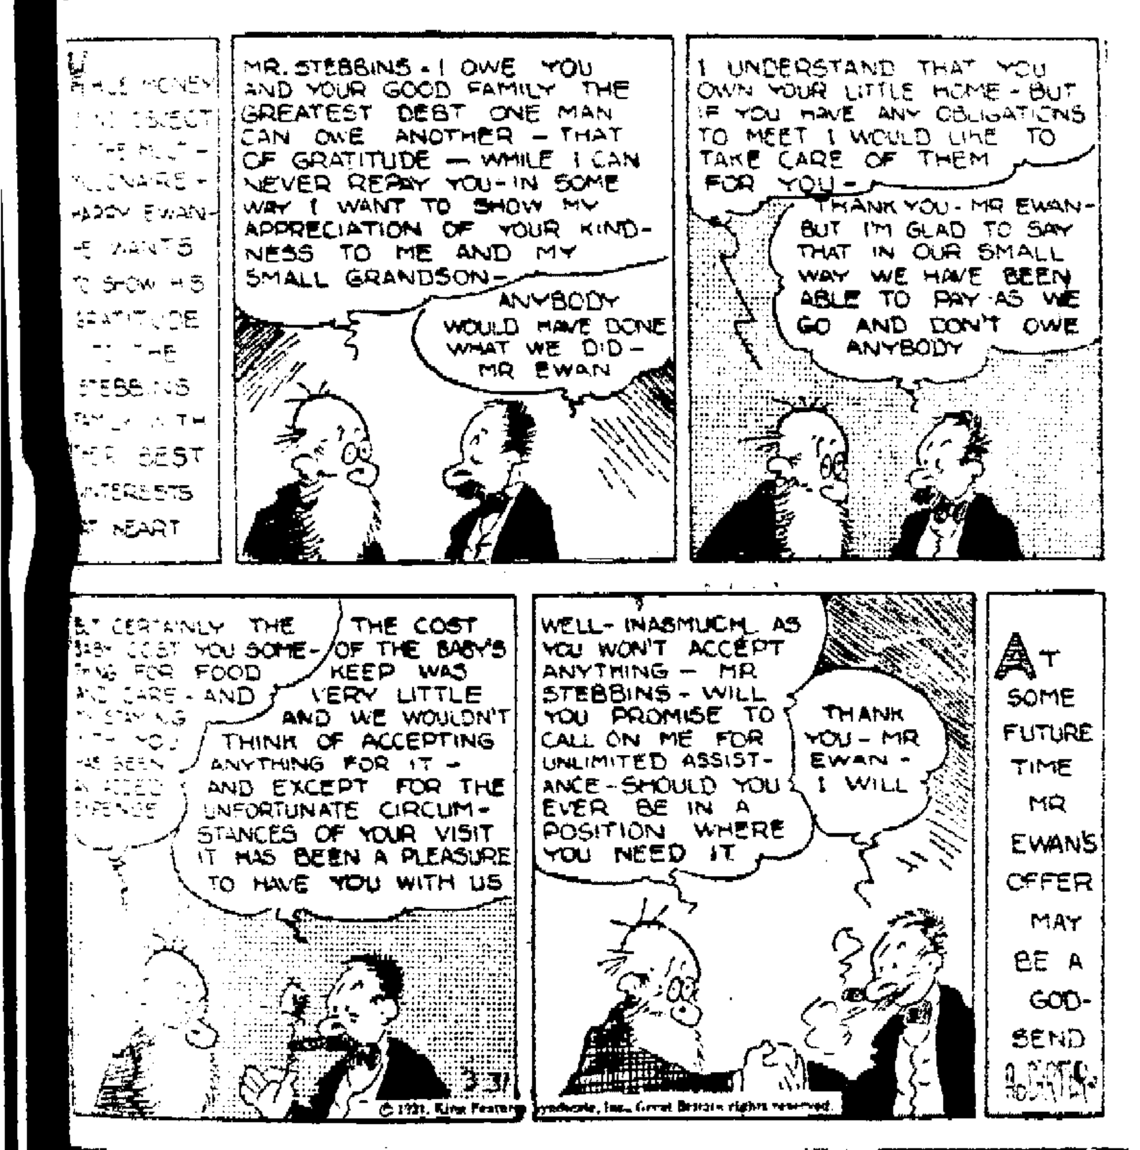
BY AD CARTER



WHILE MONEY IS NO OBJECT TO THE MULTI-MILLIONAIRE - HAPPY EWAN - HE WANTS TO SHOW HIS GRATITUDE TO THE STEBBINS FAMILY WITH THEIR BEST INTERESTS AT HEART
MR. STEBBINS - I OWE YOU AND YOUR GOOD FAMILY THE GREATEST DEBT ONE MAN CAN OWE ANOTHER — THAT OF GRATITUDE — WHILE I CAN NEVER REPAY YOU - IN SOME WAY I WANT TO SHOW MY APPRECIATION OF YOUR KINDNESS TO ME AND MY SMALL GRANDSON—
ANYBODY WOULD HAVE DONE WHAT WE DID — MR EWAN
I UNDERSTAND THAT YOU OWN YOUR LITTLE HOME - BUT IF YOU HAVE ANY OBLIGATIONS TO MEET I WOULD LIKE TO TAKE CARE OF THEM FOR YOU—
THANK YOU - MR EWAN - BUT I'M GLAD TO SAY THAT IN OUR SMALL WAY WE HAVE BEEN ABLE TO PAY AS WE GO AND DON'T OWE ANYBODY
BUT CERTAINLY THE BABY COST YOU SOMETHING FOR FOOD AND CARE - AND HIS STAYING WITH YOU HAS BEEN AN ADDED EXPENSE
THE COST OF THE BABY'S KEEP WAS VERY LITTLE AND WE WOULDN'T THINK OF ACCEPTING ANYTHING FOR IT — AND EXCEPT FOR THE UNFORTUNATE CIRCUMSTANCES OF YOUR VISIT IT HAS BEEN A PLEASURE TO HAVE YOU WITH US
WELL - INASMUCH AS YOU WON'T ACCEPT ANYTHING — MR STEBBINS - WILL YOU PROMISE TO CALL ON ME FOR UNLIMITED ASSISTANCE - SHOULD YOU EVER BE IN A POSITION WHERE YOU NEED IT
THANK YOU - MR EWAN - I WILL
AT SOME FUTURE TIME MR EWAN'S OFFER MAY BE A GOD-SEND

Dear Sir:

I have been a sufferer from ulceration and irritation of stomach and bowels for 20 years. I have tried all remedies that I have heard about, with slight improvement.

Sometime ago, my attention was called to Yellow Root & Clay which I have consistently used. I have taken five bottles and can say that I feel that I am cured of the dreadful malady that afflicted me.

I live at 394 Olney av. Marion, and am employed as a toolmaker at the Marion Steam Shovel Co. I will gladly verify this testimonial upon request.

(Signed) H. B. Jones

This is one of many encouraging reports received from those to whom we have sold Yellow Root & Clay. If you are a sufferer from Ulcers, irritation or colitis, try this really wonderful remedy.

Stocks Rebound After a Decline for Five Consecutive Sessions.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 31— Bears were finally content to take profits, and the stock market had its expected rebound today.

The market had been declining for five consecutive sessions, so traders felt that bear side might be getting over-crowded. The rebound was not violent, however.,

Utilities displayed conspicuous rallying power. Miscellaneous issues rising 2 points or more included Consolidated Gas, American Telephone, American and Foreign Power, Electric Power and Light, Public Service of N. J., Westinghouss, Sears and Atchison.

GRAIN PRICES AVERAGE LOWER

Wheat Opens Slightly Higher, but Fails To Hold Up Under Pressure.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 31 — With wheat importing countries showing extreme caution in buying, grain prices averaged lower early today. European millers were reported purchasing fresh supplies of wheat only on receipt of shipping instructions for flour. Opening ⅛@⅜ cents off to ⅛ up, wheat later held near to the initial range. Corn started unchanged to ⅛ lower, but subsequently scored some advances.

Giving an advantage to wheat bears was a comprehensive unofficial crop summary putting domestic winter wheat condition at 86.5 per cent, against 77.4 a year ago and a 10 year average of 79.2, the report indicated that only 2.5 per cent of winter wheat acreage seeded last fall would be abandoned compared with 11 per cent last year and a 10 year average of 11.8. The condtions of pastures was reported considerably better than last year, in Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas, but much lower in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota and Iowa.

Relative firmness shown at times by corn was ascribed to a falling off in the volume of receipts. Primary arrivals were 48,000 bushels, against 669 a week ago, and 745,000 a year ago. Chicago had only 59 cars, compared with 133 at this time last year. Oats chiefly followed corn.

Provision trade was stagnant and prices almost nominal.

A great and grand feeling—the bills all paid! Paying bills promptly is more far-reaching than you think. Your paying the merchant enables him to pay the manufacturer, who in turn pays his laborers, who have to go to the merchant again.

Each of us is dependent upon the other, all within the circle. So let's work together—you depend upon The City Loan as The City Loan depends upon you.

WET AND DRY CLASH IN SIGHT

Jury Trial Bill Before House Develops Possibility of Argument.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 31 —The house calendar provided the possibility today of a wet and dry argument on the floor, interspersed with consideration of an additional relief appropriation for Ohio's drouth region.

The bill of Representative Hugh Addison, Democrat, of Columbus, affording jury trial for all persons accused of violating any state statute or municipal ordinance comes before the house for debate.

When the measure was heard and reported out by the judiciary committee, Will J. Foster, of Cincinnati, who said he represented the Anti-Saloon League, charged the measure was aimed at liquor law enforcement and that it would result in cluttering up court dockets.

Seeks Equality for All

Addison said he had no thought of injecting the wet and dry issue but merely hoped to extend the right of jury trial to any accused person who demands it. Whether liquor law enforcement enters into the debate remained to be seen.

The drouth relief appropriation, calling for an additional $80,000 to provide employment of public work in those counties most affected, is contained in the bill of Representative E. J. Mildren, Democrat, of Marietta, introduced at the instance of Governor White's drouth relief committee. It was expected to meet some opposition.

Any possibility of the house overriding Governor White's veto of the bill of Representative Earle Johnson, Republican of Painesville, empowering the director of aeronautics to establish and enforce aviation regulations was removed last night at the author's request. In a statement expressing his disappointment in the Governor's action, Johnson moved for indefinite postponement and the house concurred.

White's Objection Explained

Governor White disapproved the measure because it provided punishment by fine or imprisonment for violation of any regulations set up by the aeronautics director. He said it gave the director too much power, and might add "a maze of administrative rules carrying criminal penalties both bewildering and oppressive."

How much a gallon of gasoline shrinks through evaporation, leakage and handling, from the time it leaves the refinery until it is delivered into the tank of an automobile is a problem the senate taxation committee will try to decide.

Without statuatory authority, the tax commission has been allowing a deduction of 1½ per cent on sales, but this method has been found unsatisfactory and the commission wants the reduction based on receipts. Oil companies want a three per cent reduction on receipt basis, but Minority Leader De Armond believes that amount would result in a loss of approximately $600,000 in gasoline taxes yearly to the state. The oil companies say three per cent is allowed in all other states but one which allows deduction of four per cent.

HANDS ACROSS the sea can be shaken mournfully. Great Britain has a deficit of $125,000,000.

President Hoover, back from the Virgin Islands, finds what looks like a deficit of $700,000,000, due to a drop in income taxes.

Fortunately, Uncle Sam is not without resources. He could, if he chose, print the money and everybody would take it gladly. Also he can slow down his recklessly rapid program of paying off war debts, letting those that come later have the honor of contributing part.

WALL STREET was peevish yesterday, reminding you of the querulous invalid who asks, "Doctor, am I ever going to get well?"

It is sad for a Wall street man to know that he can borrow all the money he wants for 1½ per cent, to buy stocks, and not know of anything he wants to buy.

Other patients get well and Wall street will recover, along with the rest of the United States, and then it will wish that it had used some of the 1½ per cent money now.

As Otto H. Kahn said recently: "In a little while we shall look back and not believe that today's bargains really existed."

REPORTERS on the President's voyage to the West Indies heard that Republican "big shots" planned to drop Vice President Curtis in 1932, and put Secretary of War Hurley in his place.

This agitated Vice President Curtis and his friends, naturally.

Home again, Secretary Hurley says he is for Curtis for renomination, which seems wise.

In crossing a stream you do not swap horses, either of them. And there may be quite a stream to cross by the time 1932 arrives.

PORT UNDER NEW MANAGER

City Flying Field Equipped To Give Service to Aviators.

Marion airport this week will take its place along with dozens of other Ohio ports equipped to give the itinerant and local flyer all types of service when Harold W Cobb of 197 Cummin avenue takes over management.

The port will be equipped to give airmen and ships the best service possible. Gasoline, oils, and a mechanical department equipped to make minor repairs on planes will be among these services. There will be free taxi service into Marion for aviators landing at the port for an overnight stay.

Cobb took charge of the port this week after leasing it from the city for $360 a year beginning April 1.

To make possible long and short passenger hauls and sightseeing trips, Cobb has purchased a three-place Challenger Robin cabin plane, which will he will bring to the port this week

Already an authorized agent of Curtiss-Wright, with a base headquarters at Port Columbus, Cobb will represent the company both in sales and service. A licensed airplane and engine mechanic will be available for minor repairs here, while complete overhauls and heavier work will be taken to Port Columbus.

Notice that he has taken over management of the port has been sent to every airplane owner in Ohio and every airplane company in the state and in parts of surrounding states

Cobb holds a transport pilot's license, having graduated from the Curtiss-Wright school at Port Columbus recently. He will do most of the flying on passenger trips, and will also give student instruction.

BETTY COMPSON TO BE HERE

BETTY COMPSON

Betty Compson seems to be out for something in her latest picture, "She Got What She Wanted" at the Marion Wednesday and Thursday. Lee Tracy, Alan Hale and Gaston Glass have featured roles.

Miss Compson was recently divorced from James Cruze, but that doesn't mean they can't work on the same set together, and in this picture, he directed her. The funny thing about it, the picture has a plot revolving around the idea of a young wife who seeks true love by an exchange of husbands, only to find that first husbands are best.

It is to Sarah Bernhardt that Gaston Glass owes his start as an actor. He was only 16 when he played a slave role with the Divine Sarah in "Cleopatra" and continued with her in several productions and it was this great genius who brought the young Parisian to the United States to tour. Glass did not return to France but made his debut in pictures produced in this country, appearing in his first role in the last picture Marguerite Clark made.

The Stars Say—

For Wednesday, April 1

BY GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

THE astrological forecast for this day is a very interesting one, showing much substantial progress following upon a prolonged period of stagnation and frustrated plans. Now, with old congestions removed there should be definite advancement made, largely through diligence, hard work and the assistance and good will of elderly persons or institutions. Personal popularity and worthiness may be an element of success and cooperation, especially of feminine influence.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year in which much substantial progress may be made, following upon a term of obstruction and inertia. With definite plans and practical application, the assistance of elderly persons or institutions may be counted upon, with much aid through social popularity or the influence of feminine friends. A child born on this day should be talented, popular, hard-working, and may achieve success and standing through its own worthy efforts and winning the cooperation of elders.

QUICK COMFORT FOR STOMACH ILLS IN DIAPEPSIN!

"I sure want to tell others about my experience with Pape's Diapepsin," says Robert Rosebush, 848 Leland Ave., Chicago, Illinois. "I tried a lot of things for indigestion, but nothing really helped until a friend persuaded me to take a few tablets of this wonderful preparation.

"Now I eat what I want without any distress afterwards. It used to cause real suffering. I am not bothered with gas as I used to be; feel much stronger and better in every way."

A medicine must have real merit to bring forth enthusiastic statements like this. And when not one, but hundreds, even thousands, are telling the same story of success, there seems no reason to doubt the day-in and day-out reliability of Pape's Diapepsin to help stomach sufferers.

These harmless, candy-like tablets, which relieve the heartburn, gas, belching, headaches, nausea, dizziness, and other symptoms of indigestion or "acid-dyspepsia" so pleasantly and quickly, are swiftly becoming the world's most popular remedy for digestive ills. Millions of boxes are used yearly! All drugstores sell them or, if you prefer to try them before buying, write "Pape's Diapepsin," Wheeling, W. Va., and you will receive a sample box, FREE.

ASK THE MAN WHO OWNS ONE

TWO OUT OF THREE GRADUATE TO A PACKARD

Did you know that two-thirds of those who buy the Packard Standard Eight turn in lower-priced cars? Think of it—two out of every three of our Standard Eight sales are made to people none of whom ever before owned a Packard!

Of course Packard has a long-established clientele. But repeat order business is to be expected. The surprising fact is that so many owners of lower-priced cars are turning to Packard transportation. The reason is that they have found it costs no more.

Give us the opportunity and no doubt we can show you that you, too, are paying Packard costs while not enjoying Packard ownership. Why not phone, or drop in to see us?

Here is what we can show you with actual figures: That it costs no more to maintain and operate the Packard than any other car of like size and power, no matter what its first price. And that depreciation amounts to no more when you keep the Packard longer, as most Packard owners do.

Packard cars are built for long life and complete reliability. This applies to the Packard Standard Eight, priced at the factory from $2385 to $2885, no less than to the larger, heavier Packard DeLuxe Eight, factory priced at from $3490 to $4285, and the Individual Custom Creations ranging up beyond $10,000.

Why not, then, take the first step toward Packard ownership—get in touch with us?

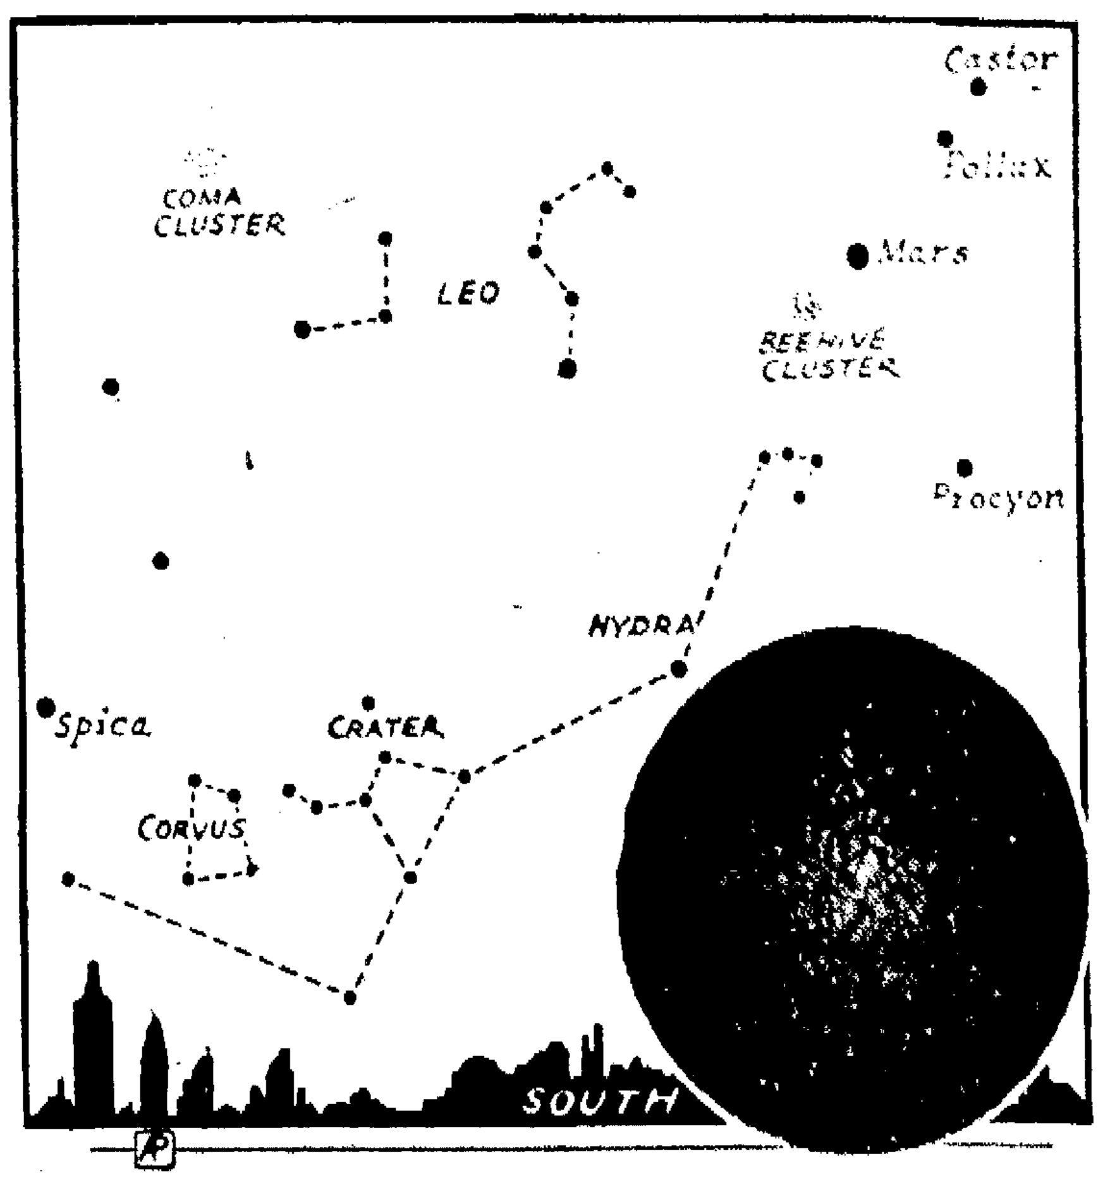
"Beehive" Cluster of Stars Glows Near Mars in April



The southern sky in the early evening of April 1 shows the Beehive and Coma clusters and the planet Mars. Inset shows how a cluster appears through binoculars.

BY ROBERT H. BAKER
(Professor of Astronomy, University of Illinois)

By The Associated Press

URBANA, Ill.—The "Beehive" cluster may be seen in the southern sky early in the evening during this month.

To the naked eye it is a faintly luminous patch against the dark sky. A field glass readily resolves the haze into a fine cluster of stars. It is known also as Praesepe, the Manger.

It is especially easy to find this cluster at the present time because the red planet Mars is near by. On the first of April Mars is directly in the south at 8 p. m. high in the sky. The Beehive is only a little way to the east of the planet.

Mars is now moving swiftly eastward. It will pass the Beehive, a little above it, on April 20. Anyone who has not noticed the movement of a planet among the stars will find it interesting to watch Mars during April.

THE first few evenings of this month will not be favorable for observing faint objects in the sky. For the moon is at the full phase on April 2. Early in the afternoon on this date the moon will, in fact, be totally eclipsed for an hour and a half, but this eclipse will not be visible in the United States.

The Beehive cluster is the most spectacular object in the rather dull constellation Cancer, of the zodiac, after which the Tropic of Cancer is named. Two thousand years ago the sun reached its most northern point in this constellation. Now this point, the summer solstice, has moved west into the adjoining constellation Gemini.

EASTWARD from the Beehive, just beyond the constellation Leo, another cluster of stars can be seen—the Coma Perenices cluster. At first sight it looks like a "cobweb in the sky," but field glasses show it was a cluster of stars.

The Coma and Beehive clusters, at distances of 250 and 500 light-years respectively, are among the nearest of the star clusters. Only the Pleiades and the Hyades of the constellation Taurus are nearer the earth. More than 300 clusters of this type are known—most of them are in the Milky Way.

About two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless liquid; pleasant, efficient and harmless. But it kills excess acids. It has remained the standard with physicians for more than 50 years.

It is the quick method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for over fifty years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c bottles—any drugstore. The genuine is always a liquid — never made in tablet form. Look for the name Phillips on wrapper and bottle. —Adv.

An Illinois state senator, and two Chicago city officials have been named in what looks like the disclosure of a close connection between politics and crime in the Windy City. Jean Jules Verne, grandson of the famous French writer, has sailed for his home in France after having participated in the christening of Sir Hubert Wilkin's "Nautilus." "Time Heals All Wounds."

The story revealed through the recent marriage in Berlin of Mrs. Gordon Duff, a London society woman, and Otto von Kohenlohe, a former German air ace, reads like a romance. Life is full of strange coincidences, but there are few surpassing the chain of them disclosed by this story of war, illness, love, renunciation and renewal of love which culminated in the marriage of the widow of a gallant Scottish air officer to the former German flight commander who, in single combat over the Hindenburg line in the late days of the World war, shot her husband down.

Shortly after the war Mrs. Duff went to a Swiss health resort to recuperate from a serious illness brought on by the death of her husband. There, among other officers—English, French, German and Austrian—she met Von Kohenlohe, who also was in poor health, and had sought that spa as a quiet and healthful place in which to recuperate. Either might have gone to any of a hundred or more resorts, but fate took them to the same. Acquaintance led to a mutual liking, liking ripened into love and they became engaged.

Some days after the announcement of their engagement, the former German flier asked his affianced how her husband had met his death. Her answer was:

"He was killed in combat over the Hindenburg line by a German officer flying an Albatross plane. Afterward, the German officer flew over the British lines and dropped my husband's letters and jewelry."

"Was it in a single combat on August 24, 1918?" asked Von Kohenlohe, sensing the tragic consequences of his fiancee's revelation. When she replied that it was, Von Kohenlohe told her he was the man responsible for her husband's death.

Broken hearted, Mrs. Duff broke the engagement and left for her home in Scotland, hoping to forget the man who had first brought her sorrow and then love.

The two did not meet again until last Christmas, when fate again intervened and brought them together as guests at a dinner given by an American diplomat at the Hotel Meurice in Paris. The intervening years had served to dissipate the hatred which had supplanted love at Von Kohenlohe's revelation, but love endured and the two were married in Berlin recently, as stated, and are now living quietly in London.

How true that truth is often stranger than fiction! How true that "time heals all wounds!"

Shipping on the Great Lakes.

No matter what our showing upon the high seas, our shipping overwhelmingly predominates upon the Great lakes, in both passenger and freight services. As the result of a recent survey made by it, the United States shipping board gave out from Washington for publication this week a statement showing that the vessels operating under the United States flag over that great chain of inland waterways constitute eighty per cent. of the number and eighty-five per cent. of the tonnage of the Great lake fleets. And our lake fleets have attained this preeminence through whole-hearted American support of our lake shipping.

Of the 555 vessels available in January for operation, 444 were American and 111 either British or Canadian, the gross tonnage being 2,760,914 and 410,747 respectively. Comparison with figures for the year before that date show that the number of American vessels upon the big lake chain decreased by three while foreign vessels were increased by seven, but our gain in tonnage during the year was 24,498 while the foreign tonnage gain was but 23,270, such replacements as were made by our lines being of increased size.

American freighters number 419 and British, eighty-seven. There were thirty-eight combination passenger and freight vessels in readiness for operation at the opening of the present lake season, of which twenty were American and eighteen, British. The remaining eleven vessels were tankers.

In the matter of size, honors are even, both the American and British lines having a vessel each of 10,000 tons, but in speed the American shipping leads with two vessels, combination passenger and freight boats, each of which is capable of nineteen knots or better.

The great chain of lakes on the international boundary line has the largest group of vessels in the world operated on fresh water. Some conception of its size may be had when it is stated that the records show that it has transported 19,000,000 tons in a single year.

Predominant upon fresh water, why should not the United States with all its immense wealth and its mighty volume of exports and imports hold a like preeminent position upon the high seas? Without American support, that goal can not be attained. With the support of American shippers and travelers it would be as good as assured.

The present investigation of Tammany is the fourth in forty years. The need of them seemingly has acquired the regularity of that for a decennial census.

Senator Wheeler, of Montana, told Chicagoans, a day or two ago, that the people would revolt against the two old parties if they permit themselves to be dominated by "reactionary forces." The greatest ground for complaint against them at present is that they have permitted themselves to be dominated by the so-called "Progressives."

The Colorado Tragedy.

The stark, tragic reality of the death of five children from exposure when a school bus became stalled near Towner, Colorado, in a post-seasonal blizzard last week has touched more hearts than any incident of human suffering for years. There have been many accidents causing children to lose their lives, many disasters in which children were numbered among the victims, but the absolute helplessness in meeting death by freezing puts the Colorado incident in a class by itself. And the fifteen who survived and are enduring the terrible pain of frozen hands and feet are figures to draw the sympathy of all.

The driver, Carl Miller, who froze to death after he left the bus and his own dead child, who was one of its passengers, is accorded the honor that belongs to a real hero. He, more than his youthful charges, comprehended the gravity of the situation. He knew what death meant. Yet, when it became apparent that help was not coming, he walked into the storm in the hope that he might help to bring rescue.

The incident is a reminder of the transitory nature of man-made safety when dealing with the elements. Living in cities, guarded at every turning by a public servant or a mechanical device, man is likely to fancy he has achieved the ultimate in protection. Yet, a blizzard, a cyclone, a hurricane, or a drought can destroy man-made plans in less time than it takes to say it. Colorado children had been traveling back and forth to school for years without apparent risk, every danger circumvented by the adequacy of the equipment provided and the caution of their elders. Yet, in an instant, the house of cards is demolished by a casual gesture of nature.

Seven New York physicians in addition to those already accused are charged with writing fake liquor prescriptions. Judged by the sales, 227,600 cigarets, on the average, are lighted every minute, day and night the year through in the United States, the cigaret output for 1930 having been 119,624,909,000. Think of the lost motion in the country, if but half the cigaret smokers use patent lighters!

Grade crossing deaths in the United States in 1930 numbered 2,020, a falling-off of 465 from the record of the year before; the injured were 5,517 compared with 6,804 in 1929, and the number of grade accidents dropped from 5,975 to 4,883. Gradually the country is coming to the conviction that beating the engine to the crossing or trying to knock a train off the track is a decidedly hazardous risk.

The Alabama court of appeals last week held that the testimony of an atheist, even though that testimony be in the form of a dying declaration, is not admissible in any court in Alabama where an oath is required, the court holding that "without belief in a Supreme Being there can be no legal oath, and without a legal oath a witness is not competent to testify." And that's that.

HINDENBURG COMMANDS.

The Fascists and the Communists both made surprising gains at the late German general election, and soon afterward the members of both the extreme factions simultaneously marched out of the Reichstag. Since then they have done nothing simultaneously except to break one another's heads, with occasional murders. Now they are going to be good simultaneously. For President Hindenburg says so, and one has confidence that Paul von Hindenburg means just what he says.

President Hindenburg has taken advantage of the emergency dictatorial power vested in him by the constitution. He says there must be no more rioting, no more political parades without police permission, no more public anti-republican meetings, and no more carrying of firearms by anybody.

The emergency law announced by the president comes just at this time to prevent the Communists from carrying out their proposed anti-Easter demonstrations. The German Communists, like those of Russia, are hostile to religion, and had promised a first-rate exhibition of rowdyism on Easter. This is specifically banned by the president's edict, which forbids demonstrations "offensive to Christianity."

The Fascists or "National Socialists" or "Nazis," which are three names for the same thing, are also hard hit, for their riots have lately been more offensive than those of the Reds. The deliberate murder of a Communist city councilman by three Nazis in Hamburg has stirred such indignation all over Germany that the aristocratic thugs are more detested than the embattled proletariat which the Communists assume to represent.

The violence of both extremes could go no further without bringing the German republic into serious disrepute. We believe that the government, acting under authority of the presidential ukase, is strong enough to restore order. Chancellor Bruening was strong enough to command order in the Reichstag and to cause the unlamented exodus of the rowdies of the Right and Left. The Germans are an extremely thorough and conscientious people, and though they have suffered long we believe that the president's command means the speedy reestablishment of order and safety throughout the Reich.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ADVERTISING IN TEXTBOOKS.

Tennessee's free textbook commission has raised an important issue by recommending the sale of advertising in school books. Evidently the commission recognizes the dangers of such an undertaking, for its recent report to the state legislature said the advertising would have to be censored very carefully. Foods, sporting goods, colleges, household articles and toys, for example, would be considered proper subjects.

While one recognizes that the cost of books could be reduced in this way, the policy of admitting advertising seems none the less questionable. What constitutes "proper and instructive" advertising would become a political question if this plan were adopted. The commission would bring upon itself the extremely difficult task of selecting the space buyers. Commercial interests excluded from advertising in the textbooks might be expected to exert every possible influence to gain that privilege.

From the school patrons' viewpoint the proposal seems ill-advised; their children would be subjected to whatever advertising appeals the commission selected.

If there are businesses which can afford to promote sales through advertisements in textbooks, the state can get the funds it needs by taxing those businesses and their prospective customers. Tennessee and other states would do well to protect public schools as much as possible against all forms of propaganda. The admission of advertising into textbooks would open a way to too many possible abuses of the privilege.—Christian Science Monitor.

War Against Dread Diabetes.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Diabetes is a disease of great interest and concern to the human family. It is a serious ailment, of course, but few of us truly appreciate the great strides made in this field of medicine. We have only to look back a few years to realize how little we know about diabetes and what horrors victims suffered.

Not only has the death rate been markedly reduced, but there has occurred a remarkable extension in the duration of the life of the diabetic. The outlook is better and better. This can be accounted for only by the remarkable studies made in the care of diabetes, as well as by the discovery of insulin.

Such terrifying complications as coma, gangrene and infections, which lead to sudden death, are rarely encountered. Our greater understanding of this disease, particularly in reference to the management of the diet, and the use of insulin, have brought about a great change.

The actual cause of the disease is not known. We understand much about it, but, failing to locate the exact cause, can not prevent it.

The disease is due to the lack of a certain internal secretion. Without this substance, there results an inability to take care of the sugar of the body.

This condition is usually discovered by the finding of excessive quantities and the continued presence of sugar in the urine. Examination of the blood, too, shows an accumulation of sugar far beyond the normal limits. If this state of affairs is permitted to continue much damage is done to the body.

Diabetes is a condition in which the fundamental defect lies in the failure of the body to properly use one of its important foodstuffs. In view of this fact, it is imperative that in the care of a diabetic strict attention be given to the diet.

Since one person differs from another, individual diets must be prescribed. No set rule will do. The physician takes into consideration the height, weight, age and occupation of the patient, and the general condition of the victim. Without the personal attention of a physician and a carefully planned diet to meet the individual needs, the prospect is not bright. You need his aid and his advice about the insulin, the modern remedy for diabetes.

When the body is not properly taking care of the sugar, it will soon make its appearance in the urine. Most cases of diabetes are first recognized by the urinary tests. That is one reason why I have always recommended periodic health examinations.

Halley's Comet.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

If Halley had made no personal researches and had added nothing to his own discovery to the sum of human knowledge, he would, nevertheless, always be remembered with gratitude by scientists. Sir Isaac Newton was far more interested in research than in publication; and much preferred to discuss theories with scientists and record his own results in notebooks, than to incorporate them in formal treatises. Halley recognized the epochal character of Newton's scientific discoveries; and presented to the Royal society, of which he was secretary, an account of Newton's work. He was deputed by the society to "jog Newtons memory," and to urge him to fulfil his promise to produce a book, embodying his discoveries. The means for publishing such a book were not forthcoming; and Halley generously defrayed all the expenses. Abandoning all his own work, he devoted himself to the task of prodding Newton to produce the work; showed the profoundest interest in it, as his correspondence shows; and corrected the proofs and saw it through the press. The world owes to Edmund Halley in a very particular degree the greatest scientific work in all history, Newton's "Principia."

Edmund Halley, the son of a rich soap-boiler, was born in Shoreditch, London, on November 8, 1656. At school, he was a brilliant scholar, showing proficiency in mathematics and a lively interest in astronomy. He actually carried telescopes and other scientific instruments with him when he entered Queen's college, Oxford, as a student in 1673.

While Halley did an immense deal of important scientific work, his principal contribution, so far as public recollection is concerned, has to do with comets. Up to 1682, it had been universally supposed that every comet which came within our ken departed to return no more forever. By observing a comet which appeared in that year, and plotting its orbit, Halley came to the conclusion that it was probably the same comet as the comets of 1607 and 1531, because the orbits of all three were very nearly the same. Moreover, research showed that there were records of the appearance of comets in 1456, 1901, 1145 and 1066. Here the intervals between the appearance of these comets are, respectively, seventy-six, seventy-five, 155—double interval, 156—double interval—and seventy-nine years. While the intervals were not precisely the same, the differences might be accounted for by perturbations. It is interesting to recall that the comet of 1066 was hailed as a flaming omen of victory for William the Conqueror, and it is so depicted on the Bayeux tapestry.

Halley showed the great hardihood to make the first prediction ever made about a comet. He predicted that all the comets already mentioned were one and the same comet, reappearing every seventy-five or seventy-six years approximately; and foretold the return of the comet in the early months of 1759. Before that date was reached, the French scientist, Clairaut, calculated with considerable refinement that the comet would reappear on April 13, 1759. It came to perihelion a month earlier—thereby establishing beyond doubt that this was the comet predicted by Halley and that his theory of periodic cometary return was correct. Halley's comet, as it is called, was last seen in 1910; and will appear again three-quarters of a century later.

When Chase Called Halstead Down.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

The few months at the opening of the first administration of Abraham Lincoln, during which Simon Cameron held the cabinet position of secretary of war, brought widespread and drastic condemnation of the latter's conduct of the office. It became so strong that Mr. Lincoln virtually had to force him out of office whether the criticism was justified by the facts or not.

Among the chief critics of the war department under Cameron was Murat Halstead, then the editor of a Cincinnati newspaper, and as quick to criticize and as vitriolic in his criticism then, as in the later years; and in addition to his editorial condemnation of Cameron he had probably written to Salmon P. Chase, then the secretary of the treasury, about the matter. It called out a reply that was for terseness, for frankness and for strong defense of a friend, even from the attacks of another friend, very characteristic of Mr. Chase.

It was written on Christmas day, 1861, at Washington, of course. In it Mr. Chase said to Halstead: "You are unjust to Cameron, and I am bound as a man of honor to say so. I have seen him as closely as most men here, and I am sure he has acted honorably, faithfully and patriotically. If he had been left to administer his own department without interference, and with only the support and aid which he himself desired, I am confident there would have been little complaint. He challenges investigation of all his transactions on the score of corruption, and may do so, I believe, with entire safety.

"This I say of him because I think I ought. He is fiercely assailed and I should think myself mean if I shrank from saying what I believe to be true because of the clamor. If he were my enemy, I ought to speak the truth in his behalf, and the obligation is not less imperative because he, more than any other man here, has always acted toward me the part of a frank, manly and generous friend."

Lecture-Recital Club Closes Season at Anniversary Dinner

THE outstanding social affair of the early spring season was the Marion Lecture-Recital club anniversary dinner last evening in the ballroom of Hotel Harding. One hundred and seven members, patrons and guests were present for the dinner and program which followed, with Worth Kramer, baritone of Columbus, and Truitt Brown, tenor, of Kenton, as guest artists.

In addition to celebrating the tenth anniversary of the organization, the affair also marked the farewell of Mrs. Karl W. Schell as president of the club for the last two years, and welcomed Mrs. J. Malcolm Strelitz, incoming president and her cabinet of officers.

Decorations Unique

The four tables at which dinner was served, were unusual and distinctive in their decorative scheme. The party was seated in the seasons of their birthdays. The fall table, at which Mrs. Strelitz and Mrs. Schell were seated, was arranged in T shape. Where the tables joined, a huge gilded cornucopia pouring forth the fruits of the season, was the centerpiece. Oak leaves ran through the center of the tables and miniature turkeys circled the cornucopia. Sheaves of wheat were the favors.

A snow man and woman at either end of the winter table combined with a centerpiece depicting a winter scene, and small snow-covered trees, with favors of figurines in white, added to the effectiveness of this table.

Charming little hat models on small stands were given as favors at the summer table. A miniature lake depicting summer sports made an attractive centerpiece.

The spring table carried out the theme of housecleaning, with feather dusters in miniature as the favors. Through the center ran an improvised roadway, and at intervals were houses, with small trucks loaded with toy furniture running the length of the table.

Birthday Cake

A three-tiered birthday cake, decorated in green and yellow and lighted by 10 tall candles, centered the space around which the tables were arranged.

In the course of the dinner, songs of greeting and appreciation were led by Mrs. Earl N. Hale, with Mrs. D. W. Yambert at the piano. Words to popular music were written by Mrs. Schell and Mrs. T. R. Evans.

Mrs. Schell extended greetings to the club and its patrons and guests on the tenth anniversary Between courses, Mrs A. H. Koons accordionist, went from table to table, playing songs appropriat to the seasons. At the summe table she played "In the Good Ol Summer Time," at the spring tabl "School Days," at the winte table, "Jingle Bells" and at the fa table, "Comin' Through the Rye."

Following a solo by Mrs. Koon Mrs. R. G. Williamson read a hi tory of the club since its organiz tion. The entertainment commi tee presented several stunts, an the program continued with short talk by Mrs. Strelitz exten ing the appreciation of the cl to Mrs. Schell for her work in h two years in office. Mrs. Sche responded and was presented gift of appreciation from the cl

Mother of Four Babies

"Although I am only 22 years old, I have four babies to care for. Before my first baby was born my mother urged me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I was so terribly weak. I had to lie down four or five times a day. After three bottles I could feel a great improvement. I still take the Vegetable Compound whenever I need it for it gives me strength to be a good mother to my family."—Mrs. Vern L. Dennings, 510 Johnson Street, Saginaw, Michigan.

DANDRUFF
Soon Destroys the Hair

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. Four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.—Adv.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Katherine Seeks Madge's Council

AT Katherine's faltering question as to what I thought of the venomous letter which she had just given me to read, I crumpled it savagely, and threw it with all my strength across the veranda. It struck the wall and came back, falling almost at her feet. A bitter little wraith of a smile touched her lips as she stooped and picked it up.

"You see," she said. "It comes back to me."

"Give it to me," I ordered, taking it from her, and smoothing it out. It was the height of absurdity for me to do that, of course, but the unadulterated brazenness and rattlesnake poison of this thing made me see red for a minute. But, of course, we will have to keep this for Jack to read."

Only Her Word for It

She gave a little cry, and bent forward, her hand stretched out in protest.

"Oh, no, no!" she exclaimed. "He never must, Madge. I—I could not bear it. Don't you see what she says—that if I said anything, he would think himself in duty bound —do you think I want him for a single instant if he is tired of me?"

The color was in her cheeks now, plenty of it, whipped there by her humiliation, and her eyes were lovely in their defiance shadowed by their pain. With the odd impulse that sometimes comes to one in moments of stress, I wished that both her husband and Hal Meredith, the man who had loved her so long and so hopelessly, could see her in this tragic moment which had given her an almost startling loveliness.

"How do you know Jack is tired of you?" I asked slowly, meaningly.

She raised her head as if someone had flicked her with a whip lash, and looked at me with startled eyes.

"Why! why!" she faltered, pointing to the letter in my lap. "She says so."

"Yes, I am aware that she does," I said drily. "But I do not know why you, a normally sensible woman of keen perceptions, should take her word for it."

The Cards Are Stacked

Katherine was silent for a long minute, her eyes looking out over the veranda rail to the horizon framed by its post. Then she turned back to me, with steady gaze locking mine.

"Because," she said bravely, and I guessed what bringing this secret bitterness into the open was costing her, "because, Madge I've been fearing this for a long time. I haven't had but one letter from Jack in a year, you know, and although the mail service there is very irregular, yet it is not as bad as that would indicate. And in that letter he spoke of this woman, his associate's sister, as being wonderful in wilderness life, said she could make the most uncomfortable place homelike. I've never seen her but I've heard that about her, too."

"Yes, so have I," I assented. "She's been so 'wonderful in wilderness life' that she's broken up two or three homes of men who have been thrown with her in the wilderness. But that sets on precedent for her breaking up yours, although I will admit she's had all the cards in her hand so far. But she's thrown a valuable trump away this deal." I picked up the letter, and shook it above my head —"one that I think will lose the game for her."

"I'm not playing any game with my husband's love as the stake," Katherine said, stubbornly, her lips compressing tightly upon the words.

"Of course, you're not," I assented quickly. "Neither would I in your place. But suppose it was not his love for you that was at question, but his happiness, and the game was what the gamblers call a crooked one with the cards all stacked against you, would you stand watching it, and make no effort to starighten things out?"

"Suppose on the contrary," Katherine said quietly, "that my intuitions bear out this woman's words. I have feared for years that I was not Jack's true mate. Remember, dear—forgive me for bringing this up, but I must now, and then we'll never speak of it again—but he only married me in the rebound—as it were—from his hurt when he came back, and learned of your marriage to Dicky."

For a second I stared at her with wide eyes. Those days of my honeymoon when my brother-cousin had gone to the French army because he had come back from South America to find me married, seemed like the intangible memories of another life. Had Jack Bickett ever been idiot enough—I bent toward Katherine and spoke sharply.

"Did Jack tell you that he married you because he could not marry me?"

News for Katherine

"No—o," she admitted, "he never said that." I purposely interrupted her with a scornful little laugh.

"You are a living illustration of a pet theory of mine," I said, "that when a brainy, poised woman starts out to make an unmitigated idiot of herself, she has all the feminine morons 'licked to a frazzle,' as Dicky would say."

"Do you mean?" she said, with a betraying little catch of the breath, "that losing you had nothing to do with his marrying me, that it wasn't because he didn't want to come back to meet you and your husband without being definitely betrothed to someone?"

A New Foe to Fat

A few years ago, millions of people suffered from excess fat. It was a blight to beauty, health and vim. Lives were shortened, all life's joys reduced.

Now look about. Excess fat is fast disappearing. Not by starvation, not by harmful drugs. Science has discovered that a great cause of excess fat lies in a weakened gland. That gland largely controls nutrition. Its secretion helps turn food into fuel and energy. A scanty secretion lets too much food turn to fat.

Now doctors the world over combat that cause. They feed the lacking factor until weight returns to normal.

That factor is the basis of Marmola prescription tablets. A world-famous medical laboratory prepares them to fit the average case. Thus any obese person may employ this method in its best form at small cost.

Marmola has been used for 24 years —millions of boxes of it. Users have told others, and the use has spread. Now a large part of the slenderness you see is due to this master help.

Now excess fat is folly. It is also folly to starve or overdo, or use methods harmful or absurd. The right method—the method which all doctors now employ—is at your call. The price at your drug store is only $1.

Go get it today if you need it. A book in the box gives the formula and explains the reasons for results. Don't carry this burden longer when people all about you have so easily thrown it off.

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

TUESDAY, and wet and sloppy. I bet whoever makes the weather thinks it is April already. When I got up this morning and pulled Jubilee out of bed by all that is left of his tail it was thundering all around, but wasn't raining; but when I opened the window and had him half way to the ground by his rope a cloud emptied itself all over us and as soon as I could look up for the rain in my eyes the cloud was gone and it was blue sky, but the cloud that had emptied itself had just hurried out of the way to make room for another cloud that was full, and when I had got out to the barn and was milking, that one emptied itself, but it had more in it and it took longer to empty itself, but the sun was shining when I went in the house to strain the milk, and the bunch was just coming.

The girls didn't have on their bathing suits, because it was a school day. If April showers bring forth May flowers I bet the March showers will bring forth April flowers. I don't care. We have all ready found some violets and lilies, and if the sun will come out a little more and the rain will come out a little less I bet there will be a lot of frogs and snakes and mudturkles out, and then it will be summer and we can have a lot of fun.

The girls came in when I was feeding my face, and Younisses hair which is curly and fluffy was full of rain drops like diamonds and my unkle told her so and reached for her, but she shook her head like a dog and the drops splashed in his eyes and all over his face, and she dodged and bumped her head on Annabelle Lee's highchair and got a black and blue hickey on her forehead, and my mother made her lay down on the lounge and she put a cloth and some anarchy on her forehead. I would have liked to of landed one on my unkle.

He said to Feeble, "You aren't afraid of me, are you?" and pulled her down on his lap, and she threw both arms around his neck and said, "I should say not," and she stuck her foot out against the table leg and gave a push and my unkle's chair went over backwards and she was setting on top of him, and she looked at him supprised and asted him was he trying to kill her, and he said he wasn't but he would like to ast a favor of her, and when she asted him what it was he asted her if she would please get off his neck, and she said "Certainly," and she got half ways up and then she stumbled and sot on his face, hard, and she looked at me and asted what I meant by pushing her, but my father and everyone but my unkle seen that I didn't, so they all laughed. But my unkle was mad and he glaired at me and said if I was his boy I would get what was coming to me. My mother said she would like to get what was coming to her. My unkle hasn't paid any board since he got back, so he knowed what she meant and shut up.

CHAPTER 26

Marjorie's Escape

AS John Waye watched, the storm passed; and, half-turning from the body, the father asked quietly, coldly:

"You did this?"

"No; only indirectly. I'm sorry to say."

"Poisoned. . . . His head is bleeding, too. Who struck him?"

"I did."

Dr. Charters turned again to the body of his son, embraced it, one arm behind and beneath it. Suddenly he whirled about; but, ere his extended hand could come to rest, John Waye struck from it the pistol it had just drawn from the dead man's hip-pocket.

Dr. Charters sank back beside the body of his son.

"And now you'll shoot me, too?" he said. "Well, go on. I've had enough," and he took his son's dead hand between his own.

"No! Not yet, Half-hung Simon. Not here and now! But some time: never fear."

"My son," groaned Charters. "The only thing I ever loved."

"Yes, Simon. D'you know now how it feels? And if a hound like you can suffer so at the loss of a poisonous cur like that, what do you imagine a man feels at the loss of the loveliest, the sweetest . . ."

"You devil! Who are you?" cried Charters, springing to his feet.

"Who am I, eh? You shall know when the time comes, Charters . . . And listen, Simon. Spider Schlitz is gone, the life choked out of his lying throat. Chink Dorson is nearly gone, for he hangs in four hours' time.'

"Gunman Gryde is gone; your son James, the son whose feet you put upon the path that led him to that death. All gone, Simon, and you're being kept for the last.

"And, meanwhile, clear out and take that snake Machado with you, and those two she-devils, your wife, Fanny, and your son's wife, Louie; and wherever you go, I will punish you there, Simon, and you shall have a filthy end. . . ."

John Waye backed from the room, locked the door, and, having first visited the doctor's bedroom and consulting-room, hurried to the waiting car.

* * *

"It's almost unbelievable," said the Rev. Laurence Weldon as he sat opposite John Waye in the vicarage sitting-room, an hour later, while, upstairs, his sister gave tea and comfort to a slightly tearful Marjorie.

"Do you still believe it, by the way?" asked his guest.

"Your own story? Oh, absolutely," answered the vicar warmly. "Besides, doesn't Marjorie's actual personal experience confirm all you've told us? What'll happen there now?"

"They'll all bolt the moment they know I've cleared out like this—for fear I'll put the police on them . . ."

"But the police ought to be called," interjected the vicar. "I feel very strongly that we . . ."

"Yes," interrupted Waye. "But, you remember, when I told you the whole story, you agreed to take no action. Do you realise that, in spite of all this, the place is a perfectly run nursing-home and its crammed full of sick people. Whats to happen to them? Surely the right thing is for Dr. Studley and your sister to carry on, with the highly qualified and able staff that they've got. The moment that Charters, Machado, and the two women are out of the house there isn't a soul there who isn't above suspicion."

"I hate the idea of letting them go," said the vicar. "And that Lauderdell woman."

"Not a shadow of proof," said John Waye. "Not Charters himself could prove anything against her."

"There's one certainty," observed the vicar. "Marjorie mustn't go back to that vile woman's house."

"Good heavens, no! Charters having failed her, she'd find some other instrument."

"But suppose Charters & Co. don't bolt?"

"There's no need for haste," continued Waye. "There's no real reason why they should be arrested at once, if they don't bolt. I only beg of you to let me get well out of the country first. I am very much in hiding myself.

"As I said, the gang had retired from business and had 'got away with it,' living blameless lives in a lucrative job and a safe retreat in a new country.

"Charters, a clever doctor, had roped in Machado, a minor crook whom he picked up in Chicago as the ideal partner for his scheme. And Charter's wife, 'Frisco Fanny, could deceive the devil himself. While the other fiend, his daughter-in-law, actually was a trained nurse before James got hold of her in America.

"No, I firmly believe that, but for this Lauderdell woman, that gang would have been safe."

"And what becomes of Marjorie now?"

"I looked 10 years younger than I do . . . and were on firmer ground . . ." said John Waye. . . . "Do you know—I am not 40 yet, although I am so grey-haired . . ."

Meanwhile,

"Now you just settle down, my dear," said Sister Weldon in the room above, "a I just realize that you're as safe as safe."

Sister Weldon pulled up an armchair, and seated herself.

"That's nice, sister . . . And where am I to go? I can't quarter myself on your brother indefinitely."

"Well, my dear, that question doesn't arise yet, surely. Have you no other relations but your guardian and his wife?"

"Only one; and he's in India. I think I'll go there."

"A near relation?"

"Not too near," laughed Marjorie. "Nobody knows but us. We've been secretly engaged since he went out to India a year ago. He's a soldier. Captain Lauderdell, Bengal Lancers. We were only waiting till my 21st birthday, when I shall be my own mistress. I couldn't marry until then, without my guardian's consent; and he made it clear that there wasn't going to be any consent for anybody. But of course it was his wife who told him what to say."

Sister Weldon promptly arose and kissed her.

"You monkey!" she said. "And never a word all this time. You'll have to send him a cable."

"Yes. Then he'll meet me in Bombay and we'll be married there. I'll go by the next boat. I shall be 21 before I get there."

"My dear, what a hustler! My brother could sign the form for your passport, and take the necessary photographs for it," said Sister Weldon.

"What dears you are!" Marjorie replied warmly. "You will come out and see us, won't you?"

"I'll come for my honeymoon."

"Oh, darling! Who is it?"

"It isn't—yet," laughed Sister Weldon.

"I shall with her," said John Waye, as the three sat at breakfast a little later, "see her safe into the hands of this Captain Lauderdell, if I like the look of him, and he seems all right".

"You'll go to India?" said the vicar, as the brother and sister eyed Waye in some surprise.

"Why not? The sooner I get out of England the better. Yes, I'll take her to Bombay. We can't let her leave here alone. She'd have to spend at least one night in London. That aunt of hers is clever, enough to be on board Marjorie's boat, if she learns that Marjorie is on her way to India."

"I told Marjorie you'd sign her passport application," said Sister Weldon to the vicar.

"Gee!" exclaimed John Waye. "Passports! I've left mine in the coat in which I arrived at the nursing-home . . . . I wonder if you'd secure it for me, sister, when you go back. It's a real work of art—executed by the best forger in New York.

But when Sister Weldon went to look for it, the passport was not there.

* * *

Without much difficulty John Waye procured an English passport enabling him to go to India, and thither he went, accompanied by Marjorie Lauderdell.
